Photo bingo

Photo bingo is a challenge for a whole table: the card lists 16 photos to take on a phone — a selfie with someone from the other family, the whole table's shoes in one shot, a toast with the next table. The first table to complete a line shows its photos to the host.

Rules

- Each table gets one card. Pick someone to take the photos and cross off the squares.
- Upload the photos to a shared album (QR code on the table) or keep them on the phone.
- One photo counts for one square only.
- The first table with a full row, column or diagonal shows its photos to the host. Play on for a full card.

Notes for the host or DJ

- Preparation: set up a shared album (for example in Google Photos or iCloud), print a QR code and put it on each table next to the card.
- Announcement: “Every table has a photo bingo card. Snap the photos on it — first table to complete a line, come and find me with your phone.”
- Checking: look through the winning table's photos. If the venue has a screen, show a few of the funniest.
- Prizes: for the whole table — a bottle of something nice, first dibs on the cake or a table photo with the couple.

Someone from your table dancing with the couple	A thumbs-up from the couple across the room	The couple, caught off guard	A heart made with two people's hands
A group photo with another table	Your whole table pulling silly faces	Your table from above	A selfie with someone you met today
The cake, before anyone gets to it	A selfie with someone from the other family	Three generations in one shot	Your table, all mid-jump
Someone mid-spin on the dance floor	Your table's arms spelling L-O-V-E	Your whole table on the dance floor	Your table as a famous painting
